ENGLISH
Students may use print or digital texts for English classes. Some teachers strongly recommend that students use print editions of each book for annotating and in-class writing purposes, but the English department trusts families to make the best decision regarding print versus electronic media. Families should consider a variety of factors, including cost, distractibility, student preference, and learning needs. And whether student use print or electronic versions, we request that families use the listed ISBN numbers to ensure they obtain the proper editions.
